

Disclosure Statement Regarding External Activities

Chad Syverson

February 14, 2014

I am a founding partner of a consulting firm, Greatest Good (<http://www.greatestgood.com/>) that offers management consulting services to companies in various industries. Past and current clients include firms primarily engaged in banking, entertainment, finance, insurance, manufacturing, and retail. I have been and am actively involved in Greatest Good's engagements with several current clients. However, none of my academic research is supported either financially or in kind (e.g., through data provision) by any client company.

Separately, I have been engaged by institutions such as the World Bank and Inter-American Development Bank to offer advice and conduct economic analysis of current economic conditions and proposed policies. Any publicly distributed material produced as part of these engagements notes that I was commissioned to do the work, and by which organization.
