Accessing the Economist Articles Online

Below, I rank three ways that access the Economist articles. They are ranked in order of ease.

1. Buy a subscription to the Economist. You can get a 10-13 week subscription for relatively little money ($10-$15). This could also be a good investment in that you will able to read current articles that I do not assign. I find the Economist to provide the best coverage in the popular press surrounding macroeconomic topics.

2. Simply put the article title and “economist” into Google. Often, the article pops right up.

3. Click the following link at the University of Chicago Library

   Click on one of the links on the left hand side. This will take you to a search engine where you could search the online library version of the Economist.
